Concept

To know the soil characters, profile for grassland development in natural pastures, degraded areas of forest and lantana removed areas for restoration of grasslands. To manage the grazing, browsing, breeding, nesting habitats.

To train the frontline staff for

- Grasses, weeds and wild leguminous plants identification from forest areas.
- Enrichment of grasslands
- Eradication of weeds from grasses for habitat improvement
- Brushwood management
- Geo mapping of grasslands
- Restoration of grasslands
- Grasses seeds collection, storage and enrichment.

The Context

The Protected Areas includes Tiger Reserves, National Parks, Wildlife Sanctuaries, the wildlife like Herbivores, Omnivores, Carnivores habited in the protected areas. The grasses are the producers, soil binders, provides chemical energy to the wildlife in the form of fodder species. The Protected areas forest are with 2-4.5% grasses naturally it should be 6.5 %-9.9%. Now recently natural grasslands and relocated areas of the Protected Areas are developing into good grasslands for the herbivores. Grasslands are the green ground cover of protected areas in forest. The grasses are useful for grazing habitat of wildlife (Herbivores). The threats to the grasslands are soil degradation, loss of soil moisture, leach out of nutrients of the soil, forest fires, weed infestation, woody species encroachment, and change in grasslands composition, exotic species and decrease in nutritive value of the fodder grasses. The faculty member of the department of the college has the good expertise in the grasses, weeds and forests flora identification and their nutritive values.

The grassland management practices include

1. To give the field training to the forest field staff in the natural grasslands and relocated areas of the Protected Areas in each season of the year.
2. To know the exact area of grassland year wise by demarcation of grassland area by GPS.
3. Grasses identification training to field staff by local names and scientific names.
4. Weeds identification with local names and their flowering season.
5. Browsing species identification with local names.
6. Field training to collect the grasses seeds and wild legumes seeds.
7. Weed eradication programme two times in a year
8. Grasslands enrichment by seed broadcasting in May - June season.
9. Grasses biomass management practices in mosaic pattern.
10. Wild fruit trees identification and addition in relocated areas.
11. Complete training programmes are organized by the CCF & Field Director of the respective Tiger Reserves in each season.

The practices in the field

The detailed reports of field workshops for frontline staff are attached in the extension activity report with Text, Images and Appreciation letters.

Results of Extension activity

- Capacity building of frontline staff of Protected Areas.
- Field interventions for habitat improvement in P. A.
- E Herbarium of grasses and identification
- Documentation of bench marks and results
- Comparative analysis before and after work
