About The Program :-

National level workshop on IPR : We are pleased to invite teachers and researchers from affiliated colleges to participate in this workshop aimed at enhancing awareness and understanding of Intellectual Property Rights

Objectives:

- Education and Awareness : Educating participants on the value of intellectual property rights, such as copyrights, patents, trademarks, and trade secrets, is one of the main goals. This can aid in participants' understanding of the value of preventing infringement and safeguarding intellectual property.
- Skill Development : The workshop can give participants useful information and abilities linked to managing intellectual property, such as how to apply for trademarks or patents, how to search for patents, and how to keep their works safe from infringement.
- Possibilities for Networking : Attendees of national workshop come from a variety of backgrounds, including government, business, and academia. These gatherings provide participants excellent chances to network with mentors, specialists, and possible partners in the intellectual property space.
- Encouraging Entrepreneurship: In order to safeguard their inventions and attract funding, entrepreneurs and start-ups must be aware of intellectual property laws. Colleges can encourage students' and alumni's entrepreneurial endeavours by hosting an IPR-focused workshop.
- Compliance and Ethics: Complying with the law and understanding about the ethical and legal ramifications of exploiting and safeguarding intellectual property are essential components of comprehending intellectual property rights. Participants can learn about moral behaviour and adhering to pertinent rules and laws from the course.
- Contribution to Society: Colleges support the general growth and advancement of society by encouraging adherence to intellectual property rights. Upholding intellectual property promotes just competition, boosts economic expansion, and honours originality and ingenuity.
- Capacity Building : Organizing a nationwide workshop may help college staff and faculty members become better teachers and advocates for intellectual property rights in their departments and fields of expertise. Over all, holding a national workshop on IPR in higher education may have a significant positive impact on society and the institution in addition to the participants.

Expected Outcomes :

- Enhanced Awareness : The workshop aims to raise participants', faculty members', and students' understanding of the value and applicability of intellectual property rights (IPR) in a variety of industries, including business, technology, innovation, and the arts.
- Enhanced Knowledge : Participants would obtain a more thorough comprehension of the many forms of Intellectual property rights, such as trade secrets, copyrights, patents, and trademarks, as well as how they relate to various situations
- Development of Skills : Workshops frequently incorporate case studies and hands-on activities that help participants gain real-world experience preparing patents, trademark applications, copyright licenses, and other legal documents.
- Opportunities for Networking : Attendees have the opportunity to connect with subject matter experts from academia, business, and law, which may result in joint ventures, internships, or employment offers.
- Promotion of Creativity and Innovation: By realizing the importance of safeguarding intellectual property,
- Strengthened Industry-Academia Collaboration : Attendees at these sessions frequently come from the industry as well. This encourages stronger linkages between academics and business, which may result in chances for collaborative initiatives, technology transfer, and research partnerships.
- Contribution to Policy Discourse : The workshop's discussions might influence the larger conversation on intellectual property laws in both the campus community and the general public.
- Empowerment : By learning about their rights and obligations around intellectual property, participants -especially students-may feel more in control of their future professional and entrepreneurial aspirations.
- Encouragement of Ethical Practices: The workshop might place a strong emphasis on the value of ethical methods for handling intellectual property and deterring infringement, plagiarism, and other immoral
